What is going to happen in Europe? You might make millions on a small investment if you could answer that question accurately three months ahead.

Will there be a big war, with Russia backing Turkey against England? Or will it be a little war, the Turks mowing away as they usually have done before England's wrath?

Will it be England, France and Italy against Turkey and Russia? Or will France stay out, and will England and Italy make some arrangement with Germany to utilize her manufacturing facilities, fighting energy and some other qualities?

Those that guess and bet are guessing very hard just now and will be betting soon.
These are questions they ask and answer:

Will steel go up?

Will Europe soon be buying our raw materials at any price we choose to ask?

Will wheat jump from $1 to $2 again?

Will the packers that have been making no money lately suddenly roll in gold?

Will our railroads be clogged with stuff for shipment to the seaports?

Will the United States play the part of angel angel and lend a few thousand millions?

Won't there be a great demand for copper?

And the oil stocks? Oil has been a drug in the market. It took the perfect control of marketing to keep up the price of gasoline under excessive oil production.

Won't there be a demand for all the oil and gasoline now?

It may be a real war, for nobody knows what power Russia has stored up and is ready to release from the Black Sea through the Dardanelles into the Mediterranean.

Revolution is a wonderful power. European nations are learned that lately when they tried to collect their debts from Russia, just as they learned it at the end of the eighteenth century when the enthusiasm of the French revolution stood them all at their heads, and they produced Napoleon as it did out.

The safest, most unswerving advice is, "Wait and watch and DON'T gamble."

Europe may want all our materials. In the meantime, last week we imported 100,000 tons of coal from England. The week before we imported 122,000. Our September importations will amount to 160,000 tons.

While speculators, gamblers and profiteers discuss their prospects, the average American citizen, who loses in war and pays the bill afterwards, will think seriously about this new threatened outbreak of flame in Europe.

Contributing men and money to these European jealousies, wars and trade competitions is like contributing money to a relative that is a gambler.

He will gamble as long as you let him. You will let him, he will ruin you while he is winning himself.

The best plan and the best kindness is to say: "Go ahead

Thieves Break in and Take Away $2,500 in Rugs, Cig-

Another robbery in the business district, running to $250 worth of imported rugs, cigarettes, rare Eastern perfumes and other articles, became known today. The victims are Berberian Brothers, proprietors of the Berberian Tobacco Co. at No.
301 Tremont street. The thieves, apparently not posted on rug values, failed to take some of the most costly ones in the place. The proprietors, who carried no theft insurance, applied for a policy today.

The thieves, who came in a touring car, entered through a cellar door, made their way up through a trap door into the first floor and thence to a second floor apartment.

They ransacked both floors, mak-

Charge American Vessel Ignored Refugees' Plea

New York, Sept. 19.—The Near East relief received a cable today from Constantinople from H. C. Jacquith of Davies, Ct., its managing director for Anatolia, reporting that the captain of the Shipping Board vessel Hog Island left Smyrna for Alexandria without cargo at the outbreak of the fire, refusing to heed the entreaties of Americans to embark 100,000 refugees who lined the water's edge for two miles, begging to be saved.
The destroyer Litchfield, according to the message, has arrived at Constantinople with 500 Armenian orphans from Smyrna. About 6,000 Christians out of 100,000 already have been evacuated.
The message said all the American women in Smyrna had been removed.

PASTOR ASKS FOR CONSERVATOR

At the request of Rev. William G.
Winslow, No. 151 Beacon street, Boston, the Probate Court of Suffolk County today appointed Roger Binney of Newton conservator of the Winslow estate. "Adequate years" is the reason assigned by Rev. Mr.
Winslow for taking this step. The aged minister was unable to appear in court in support of his petition, owing to physical disability, but Dr.
Robert G. Owen of Allston certified that he was mentally qualified to file such a petition. The estate is valued at about $20,000. Mr. Binney furnished a bond of $25,000. Mrs. Winslow appeared in favor of granting the petition.

NEW BOY MURDER SUSPECT

Salem Water Department Em-

Jekyll and Mr. Hyde

Is William Ahern, employe of the Salem Water Department, a mild mannered Dr.
Jekyll by day and a cruel Mr.
Hyde at night who terrorizes small boys at night?
William Ahern is the mildest of men when at work. He is vicious and depraved.
And is this complex character responsible for the brutal murder of twelve-year-old Henry McMahon, whose mutilated body was found in a marshy field two months ago?

THIRD BOY ATTACKED.

Police assert that Ahern attacked fourteen-year-old Alphonse Provost of No. 4 Price street, Salem. They say they have three witnesses to prove it. Ahern was the third boy to be attacked since the murder of Henry McMahon.
Furthermore, the authorities are going to have all the witnesses look at Ahern today to see if they can identify him as the man who was

SEA GIVES UP ITS DEAD.

Scene at Winthrop where body of Mrs. Arthur Pease, murder victim, was brought ashore. The body is being viewed by Medical Examiner Magrath and police officers. It is concealed under covering shown in picture.

BODY FOUND IN SEA WITH THROAT SLASHED OPEN

Out of the water between Highlands and Beachmont today laborers brought the body of a woman who had apparently been brutally murdered.

An hour later, while Medical Examiner George Burgess Magrath was making an examination of the body, Arthur Pease of No. 145 Crescent avenue, Revere, appeared and identified the body as that of his wife, Mrs. Maude Pease.

The woman's throat had been slashed.

The husband said that the last he had seen of his wife was early this morning, when she left for a walk.

The couple had been staying at the home of Mrs. Pease's mother, Mrs. Annie Harris, at her Summer cottage at No. 115 Upland road, Winthrop, Highlands.

Pease was accompanied to the beach by Mrs. Pease's brother, George A. McKenna.

The body was first noticed floating in the water by Mrs. Ethel Adams of No. 103 Upland road, a neighbor of Mrs. Harris. She sent a boy to a couple of laborers who were working on the beach. The two men brought the body in.

Medical Examiner Magrath was summoned immediately, and began his examination of the body.

Shortly after the body had been brought in, a patrolman saw another dark object floating in the water.
He went out after it and brought back a man's coat—a new and fashionably cut garment, of grey material striped with white.

The husband, overcome by the sight of his wife, was too broken up to discuss the matter at length.
He retreated, however, his statement that Mrs. Pease had no possible motive for suicide.

The police began a search of the beach for the weapon with which Mrs. Pease's throat was cut.

Mrs. Pease is forty years old, and had been married but a short time.
It was reported that the authentics have information as to how Mrs.
Pease's death was brought about and are seeking two men.

Following the identification of the body, there was a conference at the home of Mrs. Harris, which is located directly in front of where the body was found. It was attended by Pease, Mrs. Harris, her son and a daughter. Following this the family left in an automobile, apparently for Boston. It is believed they went to the North Grove street morgue, where the body had been removed for an autopsy.

Pease, before leaving, said his wife had gone to bed around six o'clock last night and got up very early this morning. When he awoke at six o'clock she was not in her bed.

He said his first husband was Charles Gillespie, who died eight years ago.

COAT MAY BE CLEW.
A striking scene was enacted when the husband and brother of the murdered woman appeared on the scene.
The word spread rapidly about the beach that a woman had been taken over.

FIND BODY OF SLAIN REVEREND IN WATER AT WINTER POND

TROAT OF VICTIM IS SLASHED

Down out of the water. The body was covered with a tarpaulin and when Medical Examiner Marshall arrived he ordered the crowd cleared. The naked group of men, women and children formed a circle as Dr. Marshall, using the tarpaulin as a shield, examined the body and gave particular attention to the slash in the woman's throat.

In this position, somebody had rushed over to the Harris cottage with the news.

Mrs. Pease had left early in the morning.

Then the husband and brother tore their way through the crowd. They came out again a few minutes later, accompanied by policemen, and the face of Pease told the story.

In addition to the slash in the throat, Mrs. Pease's face was badly bruised. It is thought, however, that this was due to the body being pounded on rocks.

Nearly 1000 of No. 145 Crescent avenue, Hingham, an uncle of Arthur Pease, says that he was shocked at the tragedy. He has been at the scene almost continually, he says, and knows that there was nothing except love between the pair.

Up to two months ago, the time of her marriage, the dead woman was employed as an auditor at the John Hancock Insurance Company in Boston. A daughter, Miss Pease, who is employed at the Hingham Hospital, hurried to the slain woman's home when informed of the tragedy.

Twice the woman said to neighbors that she was very happy. She and her husband were seen laughing and talking as they walked down the road.

The woman in said by neighbors to have been an expert swimmer.

ALL LOGANS NOT ALIKE TO JUDGE

Non-support husbands were discussed in South Boston Court today just as their wives wished.

Richard Bhatnagary of West 57th street was put on probation, after he promised to support his wife and

'PROF LOVE' ELOPED BY FORCE

By GRACE DES CHAMPS

He is just five months old and his name is "Jimmy".

His father's name is also "Jimmy" and he wears a soft, brown hat, crooked well down on his forehead.

He is the way the other boys who are twenty, and he takes a girl to the movies who is not little "Jimmy's" mother.

Little "Jimmy's" mother is peeping into Latin and chemistry at the University of Maine with considerably more zeal than she did a year or so when school was tame and life was not a year or so ago "Jimmy's" mother, whose name is Caroline, was eighteen, and bodies were dull things and those who taught from them really didn't know very much about life.

ELOPED TO BOSTON.

So Caroline Marr and "Jimmy" betook themselves to Boston, without so much as a word to their respective families, especially to Caroline's family, who are very prominent in Fall River, where they all come from, and got married.

Judge Hitch of the Probate Court in New Bedford told Caroline's family that she need no longer wear "Jimmy's" last name—which was Mine. The Judge had previously granted Caroline a divorce.

And Caroline, hearing that she needs no longer known as Mrs. Mine, decided in Maine, beset by a sigh of relief and tried to get back on her irregular verbs where she left off when she and "Jimmy" decided to elope.

QUINCY SHAW, 20 HURT IN POLO; RECOVERING

Quincy A. Shaw, 20, of proper wealth and polo fame, was thrown by his frightened mount on W. Cameron Forbes' polo field in Newwood and landed head first on the ground with such force that he was rendered unconscious. It was first reported that he had suffered a fracture of the skull, but later reports today showed that his injury was not so serious as feared. It is now recovering from the knockout.

Mrs. Shaw is son of the late Lewis A. Shaw and grandson of the late Quincy A. Shaw, who formed the Calumet & Hecla Copper Company and accumulated the Shaw fortune. He is cousin of Quincy A. Shaw, Jr.

The injured polo player, who has a town house at No. 11 Street street, and country place at River Farms, is an enthusiastic sportsman.

He fell here to wealth at his father's death and inherited considerable amount in a Virginia plantation, where he has devoted much time to breeding thoroughbred horses.

Shaw was playing for the Myopia Sea Gulls opposing the Boston First team when the accident occurred. He had played the first period with exceptional skill and had started on the second.

Shaw was thrown to the ground, his head struck through the air, and he fell on his back. He was taken to the hospital, where he is now recovering from the fall.

At first it was believed that Shaw was seriously injured, but he is now rapidly recovering from the fall.

JACK PICKFORD ANOTHER BOY ACCUSED

Los Angeles, Sept. 18.—Jack Pickford, Marjory Miller's husband, and Tom Moore will be charged with misconduct with Mrs. Clara Whipple Young, according to Frank P. Tyrrell and Herman L. Roth, attorneys for James Young, the motion picture director.

James Young was recently divorced in his wife's suit. His counsel stated that a cross-complaint will be filed in which he will seek to have the Luterocourt divorce set aside. She charged cruelty.

Depositions in the matter will be based, it is said, on an incident at Catalina Island two years ago. Young's affidavit is fortified by a series of affidavits from private detectives.

James Young admits meeting Pickford and Moore there, but adds she was "seeing Moore out of trouble when he hit a hotel clerk in the eye."

Texas Guinan and Gertrude Melan, former wife of Alphonse Melan, were at the hotel, Mrs. Young said.

DEADLY WOMAN ATTACKED PASTOR AND KILLED BEFORE MURDER

MURDERED WOMAN ATTACKED PASTOR AND KILLED BEFORE MURDER

Police Find Clues Hinting at Revenge in Fate of Rector and Choir Leader

By Correspondent News Service.
New Brunswick, N. J., Sept. 19.—A woman, with the fury of a tigress, hurled herself upon Mrs. Eleanor Reinhardt Mills, and with weapons as primitive as the jungle queen's, clawed and scratched with her sharp finger nails at the face and body of the choir leader just before she and Rev. Edward W. Hall were mysteriously shot to death in the darkness of midnight in a lonely field.

Just before shots rang out, that struck the double murder, this unknown woman who so evidently sought to diffuse the costly with the church sexton, threw and the face of Mrs. Mills. The fatal mortal scratches seemed to have been inflicted and seen by the burning flash.

These facts were gleaned by the investigation into the double murder. The police are believed to have been told by the facts that the motive was a revenge being sought to light.

Just how the slaying was done is a mystery, but more and more as the police continue to investigate, it seems one had sniped upon the pastor and the sexton's wife, discovered that she was trying to kill.

The police are believed to have been told by the facts that the motive was a revenge being sought to light. The police are believed to have been told by the facts that the motive was a revenge being sought to light.

BURN ORGAN AS CLIMAX TO CHURCH ROW

Ironclad, N.Y., Sept. 19.—The Christian Church at Bagley, Union County, recently installed an organ after several months of wrangling among the congregation. Today a mass of smoldering embers was all that remained of the organ. It had been removed from the church, taken into the church yard, chopped to pieces and set on fire after conflict it had been poured over the pieces.

Reverend here were to the effect that a woman member of the congregation, irritated because of the installation of the organ, had destroyed it.

RAWLINS ON STAGE, 'WAMPS' BUT HE CLARK

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 19.—The continued association of Dorothy Clark, the seventeen-year-old Boston dancer, with Herbert Rawlinson, the film star, whom she has said to be $200,000 for alleged attack, is the subject of an investigation being conducted by the office of the Los Angeles County District Attorney. This became known here today.

Mrs. Clark has appeared at the office of Major McClellan in charge of the complaint department of the district attorney's office to accuse her young daughter and the cinema star, Rawlinson, with her. She gave evidence, accusing Rawlinson against her will.

The daughter admitted Rawlinson had wronged her while she was yet a mere child. Despite the fact that a suit was pending against Rawlinson for an alleged attack, Dorothy admitted that she had been in communication since the return of the Clark to Los Angeles in July.

ORDER EARLY INQUIRY.
At the conclusion of a conference between William C. Doran, chief deputy district attorney, and Major McClellan, an immediate investigation of the case was ordered.

"It seems most unusual to me," said Doran today, "that a child should be permitted to associate with a man against whom she has filed such serious charges."

The Clark came to Los Angeles in July to await the opening of the trial of the suit for a fifth of a million, which is scheduled to be heard in Superior Court early in January.

Shortly thereafter the ramplike influence which the screen star appeared to possess once again brought him and Dorothy together.

Both Rawlinson and Dorothy were held over the telephone. Rides in his smart roadster followed. Dorothy was engaged in writing a story and Rawlinson became her critic and mentor.

All of this took place with the consent of the mother, she says, was Rawlinson's hypnotic influence. Their funds were running low and one evening—August 23—Dorothy rang up Rawlinson at his hotel and asked if he would advance her a small loan to tide over their present financial difficulties.

TAKE HER FOR AUTO RIDE.
Rawlinson consented, despite the fact that a sensational newspaper had him was in the office—and made an appointment for that evening. The motive is best related in the words of the secretary of the district attorney, that she said:

"Herb and Dorothy said they were going to take a short ride around the city and that she would be home in a number of hours. I consented."

"I thought it best for him and Dorothy to settle their affairs alone."

"When their return was somewhat delayed I became anxious and left the house. At a nearby vacant lot they were seen to get into a car. I saw them get into the car and drive away."

"Oh, yes, Dorothy kept the money. Why not? It is no more than just that he should pay, considering everything. I admitted to Major McClellan that I admired Herbert. Mrs. Clark had said, 'Herb, don't do that.'"

"Mr. Rawlinson occupied a very prominent part in my life for over two years and it is only natural that I should think highly of him. But I would not allow any feelings of a noble lady. Before her marriage to Prince Jean of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, who died in April, 1920, she carried the title of severe."

GREEN SEEKING ARREST OF TAGUE

State Senator Thomas Green threatens to seek a warrant for the arrest of Congressman Peter F. Tague on a charge of slander.

Tague defeated Green for the Democratic nomination for Congress in the last year's election.

"He said," in a public meeting held by Tague before the primaries, in City square, Charleston, "that I was a drunkard."

"He said that I ran four times for Congress."

"He said that I got money out of the pockets of the people in the last city election."

"He said that decent women of Charleston could not walk the streets of the city while my supporters were walking the streets at the same time."

"He referred to a gathering held by my supporters as a drunken party."

"All of these statements are deliberate and malicious lies."

"There have been statements made that I have become friendly with Tague. That, too, is a lie. I hate and despise the man, and I'm going to out him. I'm going to run against him if I have to run on sticks."

"The reason I am applying for the warrant for his arrest in the Central police court is because I know I can get no chance to get a warrant in the Charleston police court."

HEAVY FROST IN MIDDLESEX CO. KILLS CROPS

Thousands of dollars worth of vegetable crops of market gardeners and farmers along the Mithras valley and through Middlesex county generally were found today to have been killed by the most severe frost of the season. It was thought that frost for the most part, except late beans, corn, tomatoes, peaches, squash and other garden truck were likely nipped.

In the old community garden section of Lexington a minimum of 17 degrees was reported by a local resident, who made his thermometer reading just before sunrise. The surface of newly ploughed ground was found frozen a half inch deep, with small water pools skinned with ice.

This was the third frost for Lexington, the first having come the morning of August 21.

Warm southerly winds started the thermometer upward today. The weather man looked for an average rise of 10 degrees over the day before.

TO TOUR WORLD ON BELATED HONEYMOON

Fort Worth, Texas, Sept. 19.—Mrs. Guy Waggoner, who have been living in this city since their marriage, will leave for a tour of the world. This is to serve as a belated honeymoon. The young couple have been sweethearts and their marriage combined two of the largest fortunes in the oil country.

Mrs. Waggoner is herself a wealthy oilman and the bride's parents.

They have large holdings in the oil fields of Texas. They were married only a short time ago, but business considerations made it imperative that they remain at work during the honeymoon.

The work has been completed now and the couple will soon be able to devote their time to their world tour.

16 KILLED IN EX-KAISER'S SONS COUNTY MAYO BATTLE

Belfast, Sept. 19 (By the Associated Press).—After a family council of the House of Hohenzollern, held here, it was officially announced that former Emperor William is to marry the widowed Princess Hermine von Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, who was born Princess Louise of the Elder line.

The announcement, which stated that the marriage probably would take place in November of this year, was made by Friedrich von Berg, chief of the civil cabinet.

Her von Berg had previously obtained the consent of the former Kaiser's sons and the former Crown Prince, all of whom, with the exception of ex-Crown Prince Friedrich Wilhelm, attended the council.

The bride-to-be is thirty-five years of age and mother of five children, the eldest of whom is fourteen. The Princess owns a large estate at Saurbrunn, Silesia.

Ever since reports of the Kaiser's engagement to her have been circulated, monarchists have taken a contrary attitude to the match. They have opposed it principally because the princess is not of royal birth.

Her rank is what is described as "Duchess," which is just below that of royal grade, but still above that of a noble lady. Before her marriage to Prince Jean of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, who died in April, 1920, she carried the title of severe.

Hours Play Big Part in Killing of Rector

In trying to solve the mysterious double slaying of the Rev. Dr. Edward W. Hall and his choir-leader, Rev. Elmer Mills, the Somerset and Middlesex County authorities indicated the last known movements of the pair.

They also tried to fix the movements of others in connection with the investigation to determine the responsibility for the slaying.

Here is the schedule of events as far as they were able to analyze them:

FRENCH CONSUL IN CAMBRIDGE CRASH

French Consul J. C. Joseph Flannan narrowly escaped death in an auto accident at the corner of Shattuck and Cambridge streets today.

His auto, which was driven by a car driven by a Frenchman, was struck by a car driven by a Frenchman.

FINISH WARDS 1 AND 2 IN RECOUNT

Election Commissioner Burton's men, who are recounting votes cast in last week's primaries, today counted Wards One and Two, where looking for a Democratic edge. No results were affected by the recount.

High Garvey, ex-politician, led Owen Gallagher in their Ward 1 House race. The Democratic edge was in the original count Garvey won by 12. Recount cut down his lead only to a single vote, but he placed up later.

MILITANT, CRUSHED BY UNRECIPROCATED LOVE, IS BOUND TO DIE

HE WOULD SEE THE END OF IT ALL

Declares She Cannot Live Without Man Who Spurned Her in Strange Triangle

By HAROLD HALL.

Brookline, Sept. 19.—Beautiful Grace Hand of Whitman, who once sought life eagerly, now waits doggedly for death. Like so many others, she had said to the one man, "I cannot live without you."

It is an empty phrase, mostly. But she meant it. Jilted by the man she loved, she tried to kill herself by taking a dose of arsenic. As she lay on her sick bed she declared herself with quiet earnestness that carried conviction with it.

"I cannot rest until I die. There is nothing else left for me. I shall finish the job before I quit."

The principals in this love drama are Miss Hand, Miss Marion Morris of Brookline, and M. C. Billings, a prominent Brookline man.

While Miss Hand means and expects in her bed, L. A. Bowker, a distant friend from North Abington, is maintaining a constant vigil by her side to prevent her from carrying out her threat to kill herself. ACCUSES BILLINGS.

To the Boston American reporter she gave a biting account of what happened when she first attempted to take her life.

"Billings is the man to blame," she said. "He double-crossed me. There was nothing else left for me. I turned me down as no man ever before. I wanted to die. I shall finish the job."

I do not want to ruin Mr. Billings' by telling all of the story. It is foolish to say that he turned me down for another woman. I loved him as only a woman can love.

I turned to him. There was nothing left for me but death. I turned to him. There was nothing left for me but death.

LLINGS EXPLAINS. It was last Saturday afternoon at 11 o'clock that I was sitting in my car at Packard field to play tennis.

"After the game I went over to see him and climbed in with the two girls. Then Marion announced that we must be a decision at once."

"We were near Bridgewater when stopped the machine on a lonely road. We were in sight of a clump of woods. There I made my decision."

"Grace I am going to this morning. I said, and the car glowed, opened and Grace went like a child."

"She then wanted me to drive over to the woods and let her out. I did not dare to do it for the look in her eyes told me that she would do something terrible. Then she began to struggle."

"We reached a Brookline drug store and there Grace could drive. After watching her go into the store Marion and I drove back home to my home. Shortly after I received a call from L. A. Bowker, telling me that he had run out of gasoline while taking Grace home. Marion and I rushed to his assistance in my machine."

"We found them alone on the road, and then made the startling discovery that Grace had taken arsenic in an attempt to end her life."

"I first started going around with Grace last July. At that time I fell in love with her. She was running around with the wrong man."

"I pitied her. I liked her. She was a beautiful girl and I did not want to see her ruined. This is what I got in return for my efforts. Well, I am sorry and I hope this is the end."

Arrangements will be made to seat 8,000 students, faculty and friends.

Junior League Planning Work for This Season's Debutantes, Says Betty Alden

By BETTY ALDEN.

PRETTY soon now the debutantes of the coming season are going to be put to work as candidates for membership in the Junior League.

The rooms of the League open October 15, and already those in charge are planning out the charity work the 1922-23 buds will have to perform before they become full-fledged members of the League. Mrs. Francis C. Gray of Marlboro street continues as president of the organization, and a very popular president she is.

As soon as the season is under way, tea and luncheon will be served at the club's room, and it is hoped that many of the "leaguers" will avail themselves of this service.

BOSTON is always glad to have the Lutz Andersons at "wild," their Brooklyn country home, so that the news that the former Ambassador to Japan and his wife will return to "Wild" in November is welcome news indeed.

At present Mr. and Mrs. Anderson—the latter is the clever author of "Presidents and Pies"—are travelling in Europe. I understand that they will go immediately to Brookline upon their return from abroad, remaining there until after Christmas. After New Year's they will open their Winter home in Washington.

I presume everyone knows of the splendor of the Andersons' place in Washington. Mrs. Anderson's house is on a quiet street, a few blocks from the city. It has been the scene of no end of notable entertainments, and it was there that the former Isabel Perkins procured the material for her "Presidents and Pies."

AMONG those who are remaining late on the North Shore are the Walter Tufts, Jr., who have been for the season at Beverly Farms with Mrs. Tuft's mother, Mrs. Nathaniel Simpkins.

The last time I saw the former Faith Simpkins was at the recent Myrtle horse show in Haverhill, when she looked as smart as ever in a blue and tan sport combination. With her small children, wearing cunning little blue suits, she was a picture. Tufts drove to the field in her sport-looking blue suit, and in the same party were also Mrs. Thomas G. Stevenson and her two daughters. Mrs. Stevenson calls her little son "Tom-Dee."

The latter, with his light hair and blonde complexion, is quite a contrast to his mother, who is a decided brunette.

MRS. B. SUMNER WELLES, the sometime East St. Louis, has done a good deal of traveling this Summer, though the Manchester estate, which she and her husband leased for the season, has been her headquarters.

Just a short while ago Mrs. Welles went on a visit to New York, and now I hear that she has gone to Lenox for a sojourn with Mrs. Newbold Morris at "Brookhurst."

Also in Lenox just now is Mrs. Louis A. Frothingham, who is a guest of the Henry Whites at "Elm Court," and Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, visiting with Mrs. Henry Winthrop Gray at "Sundrum House."

MRS. ROYSTON BEAL ails from England today about the Pittsburgh.

I expect that the arrival of Mrs. Beal in Boston will be the signal for a host of affairs in her honor, for the Bostonian and her sister have no end of distinguished connections here. As wife of the actress of the American Embassy in London, Mrs. Beal naturally spends the greater portion of her time abroad, but pays frequent visits to this country, and manages to keep up with many connections and interests here.

PRESIDENT'S SISTER OUSTED BY VETERANS. Washington, Sept. 19.—Herbert H. Votaw, sister of President Harding, is among the first of the veterans' protest against the ouster of married women in the veterans' bureau. Mrs. Votaw, employed at an annual salary of $2,500, has been transferred to the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, where she will look after the work of several thousand women and girls there employed. Her husband is superintendent of Federal prisons at $4,000 a year.

PADEREWSKI IN FIERCE DESPITE HIS PROTEST

Warsaw, Sept. 19 (By The Associated Press).—The presidential contest in Poland the coming November will apparently be between Marshal Jozef Paderewski, the present chief of staff, and Ignace J. Paderewski. The candidacy of Paderewski has been announced by the national Democrats and the party of former Premier Skladkowski in disregard of the pianist's declaration that he had retired from politics.

The Paderewski candidacy is sponsored by the peasant party, led by former Premier Witos, and by the Socialists.

Paderewski has several times recently reiterated his declaration that he had retired from politics. At last he decided to be married and she decided to steal to obtain what she wanted. A troupe was valued by department at $200 was taken and Mrs. Cortez was married to a man named Vasquez.

Then the police took a hand in the whole affair and the young lady has had time to repent. It took the officers two weeks to discover her whereabouts.

WEDS IN HURRY AND RESUMES STAGE ROLE. Mrs. Frank Gurry, twenty-two-year-old actress, who lives at No. 254 Pearl street, Cambridge, left the Berkshires, N. Y., where she was playing the lead in "The Ragtime Wedding," and was married in the Church of the Ascension, Cambridge.

The step was entirely unexpected, and the bride and bridegroom were not known to each other until the ceremony.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. John Lockwood.

Mrs. Lockwood said she did not know of her daughter's wedding until informed by the Boston American.

Later she received a letter announcing the marriage.

"I am pleased to hear that Frank married my daughter, as he is a splendid type of man and will make an excellent husband," Mrs. Lockwood said.

The marriage is the culmination of a romance which started in Cambridge shortly after the war, when Mr. Gurry was welcomed home to his native city as one of the few Cambridge boys who won a Distinguished Service Medal.

RYAN IS DOWN, BUT HE IS NEVER OUT

New York, Sept. 19.—Plunged from the dizzy heights of a spectacular million-dollar Wall Street operation to poverty and bankruptcy proceedings, Allan A. Ryan, son of Thomas Fortune Ryan, today is unhesitatingly laying the foundation for a new start to a fortune.

He has filed papers to establish a stock and bond firm to be known as Allan A. Ryan Company, Inc. George F. Lewis, H. B. Tibbels and W. Rand, Jr., are the incorporators.

Mr. Ryan's tangled affairs are still in the hands of the court under the bankruptcy proceedings instituted after the famous corner in Sticks moved by a boomers for Ryan when the securities were taken from the stock exchange.

KATHERINE MACKAY BRIDE THIS WEEK. Roslyn, L. I., Sept. 19.—The wedding of Miss Katherine Mackay, daughter of Clarence H. Mackay, to Kenneth O'Brien, is to be one of the season's most important social ceremonies.

The wedding will take place this week in this city. It is to be a quiet affair with only a few close friends and relatives of the bride and groom present.

Katherine Mackay, known as "Harbor" because of her father's name, is the daughter of the famous financier and former Justice Morgan O'Brien.

MRS. TIERNAN SAYS POULIN PROMISED ROSES FOR THE BABY

MOB STORMS COURT TO HEAR ACCUSED WIFE'S STORY OF "LOVE CHILD"

South Bend, Ind., Sept. 19.—"He said he would send me roses when the baby came. I never saw them."

The words came defiantly at the close of Mrs. Augusta Tiernan's remarkable courtroom fight in which she asked out the story of her fight to answer with Harry Poulin, her husband's "best friend."

She was on the stand more than an hour, relating in all the details the numerous clandestine meetings with the young father, whom she accuses of being the father of her five-month-old son, who bears the name of her husband, John P. Tiernan, professor of criminal law at Notre Dame University.

BABY IN COURTROOM

Every factor essential in staging a gripping domestic drama was at hand when the four principals confronted each other across the courtroom table in Judge Chester Domb's courtroom. A throng of 2,000 mar-fully curious jammed the room and the corridor, overflowing to the streets. Police reserves were called out when women fainted in a crush to gain admittance.

Mrs. Tiernan was accompanied to the courtroom by her husband and the nurse who with her when the reputed baby was born. The baby was also in court and was taken care of by a policeman while the mother was on the witness stand.

Her clandestine meetings with Poulin, Mrs. Tiernan said, covered a period of seven months, many of them being in the Campus clothing store at Notre Dame University. She also told of three meetings in the Poulin home during the absence of Mrs. Poulin.

A WOMAN SCORNED

Poulin's court rebuff at church on a Sunday morning was the casual incident which galloped her soul, Mrs. Tiernan said, and prompted her to confess to her husband the secret love that was to demand of her so great a sacrifice. It was then, she said, she found strength to publish her shame and wreak a tardy vengeance on the man she charges betrayed her.

"We first met at a children's dance which Professor Tiernan and I chaperoned three years ago," Mrs. Tiernan said, recalling her first meeting with Poulin. After that we met many times. It was in February of last year that Poulin called one day and said he wanted me to come down to the store and see him.

"I suspected nothing and went. He asked me upstairs, where we would be alone. He told me to pretend that I was buying some overalls for the children. There he protested his love for me—and kissed me."

"After that he insisted on making dates with me for the movies and more visits to the store. He kept calling me up, saying he would go mad if he couldn't see me."

Her soft voice sighed audibly at times, Mrs. Tiernan admitted the story.

50,000 MORE GOING BACK TO R. R. JOBS

Chicago, Sept. 19.—Adjustment of misunderstandings and differences which delayed expected settlement of the railway shippers' strike on some of the roads favorable to the Baltimore police agreement was apparent today.

There were rising hopes that Bert J. Jewell, the shop crafts' leader, would meet out with officials of the New York Central time differences which prevented an agreement between striking shippers and the roads which form the New York Central system.

These hopes were strengthened when the Southern Railway, the Mobile & Ohio, controlled by the Southern, and the Monon, fell in line with roads accepting the Baltimore plan and signed the agreement. Many strikers on these roads were expected back today at the jobs they left July 1.

Reports of a general return to work by striking shippers on roads which agreed to the Baltimore plan brought predictions by union leaders that the estimated number of 50,000 returned strikers on various roads would be doubled within a few days.

Shop forces generally were estimated in railroad circles today at about 45 per cent. of normal.

Ku Klux Members Barred as Jurors By Chicago Judge

Chicago, Sept. 19.—Members of the Ku Klux Klan were declared barred from jury service by Judge David in Superior Court when he examined two panels of veniremen called to hear common law cases.

As each juror appeared Judge David questioned him as to whether he was a member of a secret society and particularly of the Ku Klux Klan.

"I will not tolerate any man to serve as a juror on any case before me who is affiliated with any such organization," he declared. "Members of the Ku Klux Klan have confirmed opinions and they cannot serve here."

A night breeze over the South's End came through an open window of James P. Coleman's room at No. 19 Rutland square and blew out the gas which had been left burning low. Coleman was found unconscious later by other lodgers. City Hospital reports that he recovered. He is twenty-six and single.

GERMANY MAKES PARTIAL PAYMENT

Berlin, Sept. 19.—The government according to the newspapers, has paid to the allies 16,000,000 marks as part of the installment of 24,400,000 due in liquidation of Germany's private prewar debts to allied nations.

ENGLAND KICKS AT CIRCULARS IN PASSPORTS

Washington, Sept. 19.—The extent of complaints against American consular agents at Newcastle, England, resulting in the British Foreign Office withdrawing their recognition, was that they placed Shipping Board circulars in vied passports of Great Britain's citizens had been in their own inners. President J. Burton Smith of the Shipping Board, declared today.

President Smith has just returned to Washington after an absence of five weeks on Shipping Board business in England. He said the result of Great Britain's action had been to cause travelers and shippers the inconvenience of going to Hull for vied passports and consular voices. He said that the State Department had merely transferred Consul Fred C. Slater and Vice-Consul Russell M. Brooks to other posts and evidently did not consider dismissing them.

President Smith made a personal investigation of the Newcastle affair while in England. A State Department official is now en route to England to make an official inquiry.

When Nature requires assistance, she will not be slow in conveying to you an intimation of the fact. Decline of energy, inability to sleep well, headache, biliousness, constipation, a general sluggishness of mind and body and any sign of digestive "unrest" should impel you to seek the aid of a reliable medicine without delay. There is no better—no surer—no safer—than this proven remedy.

Mr. Poulin, a frail little woman, with watery blue eyes that stared amazedly through thick-lensed spectacles, sat apart from her husband, in the centre of a group of intimate friends.

"When I confided my trouble to Poulin, a few weeks after my first secret meeting," Mrs. Tiernan continued, "he admitted that he was responsible. He swore me to secrecy and demanded that I forgo any marriage relationship with my husband."

Questioned upon the point, Mrs. Tiernan said she had complied with her alleged paramour's request.

FORGOT THE ROSES.

"One time he asked me if any of my husband's relatives had blue eyes and black hair, as he himself had, that any suspicion about the percentage of the child might not crop up from such facts."

"My husband, all the while, thought I was at the movies when I was meeting Poulin."

"During Mrs. Poulin's absence in Chicago, Harry took me to his home three times, and we had a few highballs, danced to the phonograph and he kissed me again and again."

When Mrs. Poulin returned, she learned of the affair, Mrs. Tiernan said, and their meetings came to an abrupt end. There was a promise of roses when the child was born in November, but no roses came.

Poulin sat motionless when the final direct answer came to Prosecutor Jellison's question: "Who is the father of that child?"

"Harry Poulin," returned the witness, raising her eyes to meet those of the defendant. But their gaze did not meet.

Time to Build Strong

It has come to be understood by most manufacturers and distributors that a large volume of business at any period of time is of itself no proof that the business is built on a sure foundation. The volume may be due to a variety of conditions, and those conditions may be temporary, and may be entirely out of the control of those who enjoy them.

The only sure foundation upon which a big business can be successfully built is an undisputed consumer preference. Let that be present and it matters not how quickly a business grows, or how big it grows, you have the assurance that it is solidly built and that it will not topple over when the first wind blows.

Advertising is the corner stone of the structure of consumer preference. No conspicuous example exists where there is a steady and sure consumer demand for any product that is not properly advertised. Every instance that can be cited of a consumer demand that is strong enough to offset changing market conditions may also be cited as an example of the effective use of advertising.

The present business condition is a challenge to every business that is built on the uncertain foundation of a demand due to a favorable state of the market. Assuming that the strong demand of the past few years, prior to 1920, was a permanent thing, many manufacturers made provisions to supply the demand and reap a harvest of profits; but they overlooked the importance of insuring their share of the demand.

Now the great lesson has been learned—at a prodigious cost. The disposition today is to build strong, to make sure of the foundations before rearing a great superstructure. In the long run it will mean that all business will be on a more solid basis, and less likely to be upset by changing conditions. This will be the great compensation for the stress of the present period.

D ARENA BOUTS SHADY: BOTH OF 'EM WIN

By FREDERICK G. LIEB.

Frankie Frank, Giant's second sacker, doesn't stand out like a comet, but a pure, possible number one second sacker as does (George) Slaton. The two are even in the Frank's wins at some of the best places in the world. At New Orleans, the first year season, he was the leading Frank in the city for a long time. In the season of the war, he was the leading Frank in the city of the war. He was the leading Frank in the city of the war. He was the leading Frank in the city of the war.

That Frank is a player who hardly can be described as a hope or future. You've got to see him in action in a game and you'll see off to a rather more start in the game when he was let out of the Giant line, pushing the face six weeks or so, protruding out of about pushing and he never did

BOSTON SCENE OF HISTORIC BROWN-DARTMOUTH GRID CLASSIC

GREEN GRID SQUAD IS LARGEST ON RECORD

Green Grid Squad, Dartmouth's football team, will meet on the field at Providence, R.I., on Saturday, Sept. 19, instead of at Dartmouth, as was originally scheduled. The change is at the request of the Dartmouth authorities who found that they would have to arrange seating facilities for a big crowd.

Applications, sent out to Dartmouth, revealed the changes, although no official announcement has come from Graduate Manager of the team, who is in charge of the team's affairs. The three-year agreement between Dartmouth and Brown last year, which was to play in Providence this year, was in 1928, and in 1929. In 1930, the Dartmouth football squad has hit its real stride, with a record of 10-0-1 in 1929, and 11-0-1 in 1930. The team is the largest squad on record, with 100 players.

The team is coached by Coach J. H. Brown, who is a former Dartmouth football star and a member of the team's advisory board. The team is coached by Coach J. H. Brown, who is a former Dartmouth football star and a member of the team's advisory board.

Favor Yanks at 7 to 5 to Beat Browns

New York, Sept. 19.—Odds of 7 to 5 are now being offered for the Yankees to win the pennant in the American League. Getting the long end of the St. Louis series has made the Huggins team favorites, although they play away from home the rest of the campaign and will meet better opposition at all Western points.

There's a little inside New York speculation at even money regarding a local world's series.

'NOSE PRINT' TO SUCCEED CATTLE BRANDING IN NEW ENGLAND

MARY WINGATE WOULD'NT SELL HER SIMPLE

Lodge Opposes Move He Knows Is Right

Stands Today on Railroad and Coal Issues as He Did Years Ago on Parcel Post

When Senator Lodge says he is opposed to government operation of the railroads and the coal mines, that he must not be opposed to government regulation, he opposes something that he knows has worked in every case where it has been tried and he favors something that he knows has failed in every experiment.

The government has never taken over any public function operated for private profit and operated it publicly that it has not improved the conditions and made a success of the operation. The government has never yet tried to regulate a public function conducted for private profit that it has not succeeded in making a dismal failure of the regulation.

This, Senator Lodge knows as well as any man and better than most men. He is perfectly familiar with the history of government operation of the parcel post and all that he would say now against government operation of the railroads and the coal mines he said fifteen and twenty years ago against the government's undertaking to deliver the parcel post. All he would say now against the government's operation of the railroads and the coal mines he said once against the government's going into the postal savings bank business.

Senator Lodge is entirely familiar with the wretched failure of government regulation of the railroads. He knows that the government has tried to regulate our railroads for a whole generation, and that the end of this regulation has been this dismal condition of a practical prostration of the great arteries of trade, and the consequent prostration of business.

He knows that history does not present a more continuous, uninterrupted failure of an undertaking by our national government and State governments than the regulation of the operation of our railroads for private profit by private interests. He knows that at the end of thirty years we shall be worse off than we are now if we attempt only the public regulation of the coal mines.

He knows, if he knows anything, that when an enterprise in private hands reaches the point where it has to be regulated by the government it has reached the point where the government must take it and operate it, abolishing all private profit and all private management. Experience has shown our people that there can be no half-way position—that private interests and the public interest cannot lie down together in the operation of these public functions any more than the lion and the lamb can lie down together without one of them being inside the other.

To propose public regulation of the coal mines is merely to postpone the day of reckoning; to add merely to the expense of the operation of the coal mines; to add to the cost of coal to the people, and to put another great financial interest into politics to corrupt our public life and to add so much more danger to the existence of the republic.

When the supply of a vital public necessity falls into the hands of great combinations of capital and the irrepressible conflict between the public and the private interests begins, then but one of two things can follow, namely, the complete surrender of public interests to the private interests or a complete conflict of the private interests to the public interests. The conflict is irrepressible and irreconcilable. The two cannot exist together any more than a house divided against itself can stand. It is a law of human nature; it is a law of society; it is the law of economics; it is the law of social, political and economic democracy.

We are glad to note that leading Democrats of Massachusetts take a different view of this coal question and of this railroad question from Senator Lodge. All the leading candidates for the leading public offices of the State and nation, in this community, on the Democratic side, we understand, recognize the inevitability of public ownership and operation, and at least the public operation of these great public utilities like the railroads and the coal mines.

It will soon be the great issue which will divide the chief political parties.

Profiteering Middlemen and Electricity Prices

We have been told, and so often that we almost believed it, that the "Profiteering Middleman" was mainly to blame for the high cost of necessities.

It was a surprise, however, when in the course of the proceedings by which the Boston American and the Mayor of Boston are forcing down the price of electricity, "Middlemen" were found profiteering in the electricity which the Edison Electric Illuminating Company of Boston supplies.

It appears that some hundreds of landlords are supplied by the Edison company with electricity at a very low price and are allowed to sell it to tenants at very much higher prices, in some instances more than double the price which the landlord paid the Edison company.

The profits thus taken by the "Middleman" have been estimated at over a million dollars a year for Boston alone.

Those speaking for the Edison company have taken the position before the Department of Public Utilities that such profiteering could not be prevented.

However, the New Jersey Board of Public Utility Commissioners appears to have found a way, for that board has just ordered the Public Service Electric Company of New Jersey not to sell electricity to a landlord at a low price where the landlord proposed to resell it at a higher price to tenants.

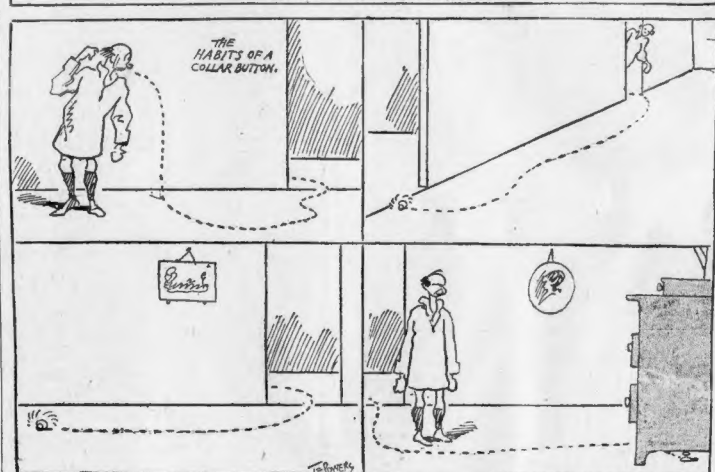

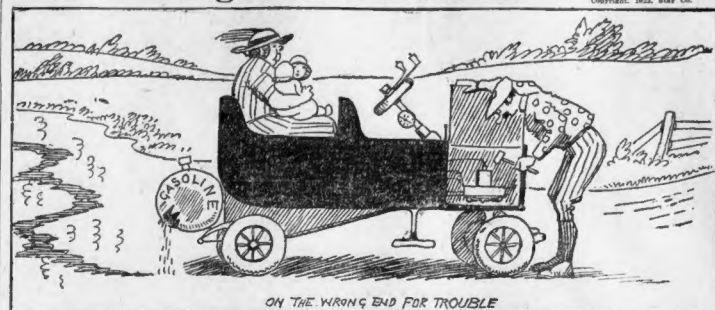

If the Department of Public Utilities of Massachusetts should follow in the footsteps of the New Jersey commission would find that 130,000 customers of the Edison company would find their bills for electricity about one-quarter less than they are now.

Doing What You Like

By Dr. Charles Fleischer

ARE you doing what you like?

Or are you postponing this deep pleasure until somewhere along toward the end of life? Because, if you are not, we want to suggest that you would better get busy with stock-taking, to find out where you stand, what are your resources and how you could reinvest yourself, wholly or in part, so as to get the utmost returns in dividends of happiness and satisfaction.

To illustrate our meaning, let us recall here the letter which John Henshaw Clark lately wrote to President Wilson:

"I shall be fifty-five years old on the eighteenth of this month. For a long time I have promised myself that I will be better off at that age. I would like to be myself as much as possible from imperative duties, to the end that I may have time to read many books which I have not had time to read in a busy life; to travel and to serve my neighbors and some such 'narrow' aims in which I can, with some, while holding important public office."

"As a beginning of what I hope may at least be a partial realization of this philosophy of my later life, I hereby resign, as of September 15, 1922, the office of Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, which I have held during the last six years."

"With grateful appreciation, my dear Mr. President, of the many courtesies you have shown me through many years, I am, sincerely yours, John H. Clark."

Our wishes are thousands and splendidly ambitious a man many years of useful life, even if one is not in sympathy with his avowed purpose to leave these things to the future. What is impressive in Justice Clark's message is the determination to amend his remaining years with a life of usefulness and to make his last years his best.

Please note that he gives all this, in order to be a troublemaker in what he thinks is his "best" years.

No dear reader, this is not a complimentary reference to Mr. Clark. Mr. Clark has never married.

Anyhow, we wish to commend Justice Clark's shining example to all who wish to live their lives to the fullest. Do not postpone until after five o'clock what you really live. You may never catch thirty-five. Why not? END LIVING!

In reply to Mr. Rosenbaum's letter of September 14 I wish to tell him he just knows about as much of the Irish question as the Irish do about Jerusalem, and also to inform him that England has about as much use for the Jews, were it not for their money value as the hotel landlord seems to have here. Are the Churches to Blame?

Editor Boston American:

If the churches set out to reform the world, they must first reform themselves. It is the mission of the churches to bring about social and economic justice by agitating from the pulpit and public platforms the nationalization or taking over of the natural resources of the earth for the common good. The men of the cloth preach the message of the brotherhood of man that we are "one big human family." What moral right, then, has a small group of that family to have and to hold for themselves alone things the masses need in order to sustain and perpetuate human life? Now when the churches remain neutral in the face of social injustices do not the churches become abettors? What right to take part as a layman in the coming reconstruction I submit, the following as the only remedy for the present ill of the existing social order, and as a basis for the new democracy, namely, CHRISTIANITY APPLIED.

If the "shen" of the city of Boston had any doubts as to the advantages of municipal-owned public utilities as compared with private ownership, their doubts should have been dispelled Wednesday afternoon by the stupidity and general incompetency shown by the "shen" of the city of Boston in their handling of the Boston Elevated Railway Company and the railroad.

The Boston Elevated Company undoubtedly was not to blame for the loss of the streetcar line, but they were to blame for failing to lay the public utility to rest by paying another transportation company another fare to get them home, for their failure to not notify the public they would be notified.

Stupid

Editor Boston American:

If the "shen" of the city of Boston had any doubts as to the advantages of municipal-owned public utilities as compared with private ownership, their doubts should have been dispelled Wednesday afternoon by the stupidity and general incompetency shown by the "shen" of the city of Boston in their handling of the Boston Elevated Railway Company and the railroad.

The Boston Elevated Company undoubtedly was not to blame for the loss of the streetcar line, but they were to blame for failing to lay the public utility to rest by paying another transportation company another fare to get them home, for their failure to not notify the public they would be notified.

Then, at the South Station, the biggest in the world, with the possible exception of Charing Cross, London, in point of numbers, with

If This Is Your Birthday You Are Lucky

YOU are fortunate if born today, and indeed you will need all the determination you can muster in order to meet the changing vicissitudes of your life. You are not constitutionally robust but with your will power you should be able to acquire considerable reserve strength through sheer superiority of mind over matter.

Today you should sign legal documents with surety of success—but avoid intricate agreements.

The next year of your life will be profitable and valuable to you in after years because of the success you will experience. You will have friends and fortune but you will be solidified by misfortune.

A child born today will be cheerful and courageous but probably will in health and well-being be the least.

Famous persons born this day: William B. Astor—Merchant and capitalist.

Ethel Allen Hitchcock—Secretary of the Interior.

Marshall P. Wilder—Historian.

ARE YOU PREPARED FOR WHAT YOU WANT TO DO? You are facing a lot about not being able to go about and do some of the things your ambitions would lead you to undertake.

You do not see an opening for you and you get them interested, when they get among others they are bound to talk about it.

The great thing is to prepare yourself.

It is the place in which you live that is at fault, or possibly, you attribute your failure to get a certain job to personal animosity among your employers.

It is the place in which you live that is at fault, or possibly, you attribute your failure to get a certain job to personal animosity among your employers.

But, old, you know, you know any one who could do a thing better than you and you get them interested, when they get among others they are bound to talk about it.

The population of Boston in 1915 was about equal to the combined population of twenty surrounding cities, headed by Cambridge.

SEEN AND HEARD

MRS. CLARENCE R. EDWARDS, wife of the former Y. D. commander, is a busy woman, but she is never too rushed to give valuable tips to the Bostonian. Exchange on Boylston street. One of the sponsors of the idea, Mrs. Edwards can be seen in the Exchange nearly every day, when she is in Boston, and because of her efforts several of the most prominent women in the city are closely allied with the work of this store.

"Back to normal again" is the slogan of South End ice cream parlors. Ice cream sodas are now selling for one cent in that section of Boston. Even in the downtown section there are some drug stores that are now offering ice cream sodas at this price.
